Ukraine: ICRC delegate killed in Donetsk

News release | 02 OCTOBER 2014

Kiev/Geneva (ICRC) – The International Committee of the Red Cross (ICRC) is deeply distressed by the killing of one of its staff, Laurent DuPasquier, in Donetsk today. The 38-year-old Swiss national, an administrator in the organization's office in the city, was killed when a shell landed near the premises.

"We are deeply shocked by this tragic loss," said ICRC Director of Operations Dominik Stillhart. "We understand that there were other civilian casualties in Donetsk today. Indiscriminate shelling of residential areas is unacceptable and violates international humanitarian law."

Mr DuPasquier worked for the ICRC for more than five years, carrying out assignments in Pakistan, Yemen, Haiti, Egypt and Papua New Guinea. He started his posting in Ukraine six weeks ago.

The ICRC currently has about 20 staff in Donetsk, including five expatriates of various nationalities. All other ICRC staff are now in safety.

The ICRC has been working in Ukraine since the onset of the crisis this year, supporting hospitals, helping displaced and vulnerable people, and restoring contact between family members separated by the conflict.

First the Malaysian airliner in which 298 perished, including nearly 100 children, now the Red Cross delegate that was killed from shelling in Russian-held Donetsk on Oct. 2, Ukrainian authorities say they have recordings implicating Kremlin-backed proxies in the tragedy.

Ukraine's Interior Ministry published a recording on YouTube between two high-level Kremlin proxies discussing the death of 38-year-old Swiss national Laurent DuPasquier with Russian journalist Yevgeni Poddubny of RTR television.

The leader of the so-called Donetsk People's Republic, Aleksandr Zakharchenko, specifically tells the Russian state-owned channel correspondent of plans to place the death's blame on the Ukrainian military. He apparently tells Poddubny that they plan to show a rocket shell that contains phosphorus to journalists to further the alleged fabrication.

Both sides accuse each other of the shelling that led to the death of the Red Cross worker.

He sarcastically tells Poddubny of a condolence letter the terrorist-labeled group planned to write with passages that the Ukrainian military is "bad, (and) poor shots."

An "organized attack in Kandahar," Afghanistan, has led to the deaths of three security guards manning the UNHCR compound and two security contractors. Two other U.N. security guards have been wounded.

A par bomb went off at the gate of a local non-governmental organization's office that shares a wall with the UNHCR compound, according to U.N. Secretary-General Ban Ki-moon.

Ban said: "When the wall collapsed, suicide attackers entered the U.N. premises. Three U.N. security guards were killed and two others were wounded. Two security contractors were killed as well. Like others before it, this attack underscores the risks that U.N. and international aid workers face in Afghanistan."

Two British aid workers kidnapped by rebels in Somalia have been released and are on the way back to their base in Kenya, the Foreign Office said today.

Bill Condie, 61, and Roger Carter, 41, who work for the UN Children's Agency, were captured more than a week ago in the Somali capital, Mogadishu.

Today, Mr Condie's mother Effie, 91, spoke of her "elation" at the news.

And she said she believed Mr Condie would continue working overseas despite the fact he has now been through two kidnapping ordeals in Somalia.

Speaking from her home in Alva, Clackmannanshire, Mrs Condie said she had suffered stomach complaints and loss of sleep over the last week as she waited for news of her son.

She said: "It upset me. I had to get the doctor in as it just upset me. But now I know he's all right and it's OK.

"We didn't expect him to be kidnapped so long, we thought he would be freed quicker.

Mrs Condie, who last saw her son when he visited his home town with his wife, Gwyneth, over New Year, said he was unlikely to give up his aid work.

She said: "He loves it out there and he's not wanting to come back, he says it's beautiful.
